Accurate Vitamin D Testing at Sunrise

January 8, 2009

To: All Physician Clients

You probably have seen recent news reports that a national laboratory has acknowledged they had provided erroneous results on Vitamin D tests. Reports say thousands of test results may be inaccurate due to problems related to the "in-house" test they use.

Sunrise has NEVER used that method, so our results are not in question. We have ALWAYS used an FDA approved test.

If your patients have been tested at Sunrise you can be assured that:

- An FDA approved Vitamin D test was ALWAYS used
- The Sunrise Vitamin D test results are accurate
